When I was in Second Grade at St. Anthony's School in New York, our Parish instituted formal tuition for its parishioners who had students in the school. Up until that time tuition had been free for Parishioners; then suddenly it became a two-dollars-a-month tuition (soon thereafter ten dollars). Our faculty was 100% composed of Franciscan nuns – from Kindergarten (which was new) through 8th grade and even in our Parish's "Commercial High School" where secretarial and basic business skills were taught. Operational expenses were low (technology wasn't "a thing" back then, there was no air conditioning), regulations were minimal, and thus tuition was negligible.

Meanwhile back in 2018. Fast forward to our Parish school today: In our Holy Cross Elementary, Middle and High School operations, there are no priests, brothers or nuns that are teaching. Salaries, while lower than that of our public-school counterparts, are competitive; technology (and its associated cost of upkeep) permeates our buildings; health benefits are provided fully to each employee; air conditioning is provided in all campus buildings; and the over cost of care, maintenance, and meeting regulatory costs has risen.

Intuition about Tuition. Amidst all of this, I have made it a priority during my time as Pastor to keep tuition rates as low as possible by way of frugal spending, targeted fund raising, and did I mention frugal spending? As such, unlike any other school in the Diocese, Holy Cross Elementary School's tuition has been frozen twice during the past four year, while our Parish High School (St. Thomas More Academy) saw its tuition frozen and reduced upon becoming a Parish school. Catholic School education, in the estimation of this Pastor, needs to be kept reasonable in order remain accessible to our families.

A Supporting Column. Why am I writing about this in this week's column? Because this weekend, parishioners here at Holy Cross and Immaculate Conception, as well as throughout the Diocese will be asked to help make the dream of a Catholic education a reality for struggling Catholic families. Funds raised through this collection coupled with the Diocese's existing tuition assistance endowment provides financial assistance to hundreds and hundreds of deserving families seeking a Catholic School education for their children but who cannot afford the full cost of tuition.

Go Teach All Nations. Through this collection, the Church is reaching out to the Catholic faithful to assist in ensuring that the Catholic commitment to education of our children does not fade away because people cannot afford it. Since the Church has a mission given by Christ to educate ("Go teach all nations" Matthew 28:19) and since this mission directly affects the quality of life we experience as Catholics, all of us have a stake in Catholic education.

As many of you know, I loathe talking about money in the context of faith, but there are times where it is the Pastor's duty to do so. And this is one of those times. And so, I ask you to consider supporting this week's Share in the Spirit collection (and if you are not able to contribute this week, feel free to drop off or mail a donation to our Parish office). God bless you all!

Yours in Christ,
Fr. James Lentini, Pastor

LITURGICAL NEWS

Readings—September 30 - 26th Sun. Ordinary Time

First Reading: Numbers 11:25-29

Joshua's misplaced zeal manifests itself in jealousy of others who prophesy without permission. Moses says he wishes all God's people could prophesy.

Second Reading: James 5:1-6

An answer for the rich, says James in this letter. Those he seems to have in mind are those who are focused on themselves and what they have earned.

Gospel: Mark 9:38-43, 45, 47-48

There is no room for jealousy in discipleship. Those who follow Jesus are called to recognize the giftedness of others.

This change will hopefully allow more parishioners to pray this devotion to honor our Lord and Mary and to pray for the salvation of souls. We hope you will join many of us often. God bless you and fill your hearts with His love.

SCHOOL UPDATE

I don't care much for disappointment. I'm sure the larger majority share in my opinion. Planning an event takes time... take for example the simple dinner party. There's the menu, the table setting, the shopping, not to mention what to wear! And then, due to unforeseen circumstances our time and effort turns into nothing more than an exercise in futility because of a change in plans.

Our Religion Committee begins planning for the upcoming school year far in advance of the onset of the year. This year our committee members are Mrs. Cote and Mrs. McGowan who act committee chairpersons along with Ms. Overstreet, Mrs. Kolakowski, Mrs. Guido, and yours truly. Our summer agenda is lengthy including such goals as planning activities in keeping with the diocesan theme for the new school year, assigning Masses and prayer services to grade levels for planning, and to tackle the arrangements and scheduling of activities for Catholic Schools Week. That last one's a biggie!

I enjoy our meetings because we have so much fun discussing and developing ways to strengthen and celebrate our Catholic identity. Our first school Mass for the year is planned for our Feast Day; the Exaltation of the Holy Cross. This year Mrs. Guido and Mrs. Peek lead their students through the planning of our Mass. Emily C. welcomed everyone to Mass. It was an honor for us to be joined by our friends from STMA and our Diocesan Superintendent, Dr. Louis DeAngelo. Reagan G. served as lector for the first reading. Mass "duties" were divided equally between HC and STMA students. The choir was comprised of the angelic voices from both schools. One of the standouts had to be Quincy A. He sang beautifully leading us in the Psalm Response and the Alleluia. Nervous? Absolutely, he was! But he maintained his composure like a true professional. With all going according to plan, the Mass was lovely. The afternoon on the other hand didn't work out the way the Religion Committee had intended. Talking about your unforeseen circumstances! Who knew back in July that we could be sitting in the path of a hurricane? I can assure you it didn't come up in discussion...back in July. So, we boldly and naively planned for an afternoon procession down State Street! Our eighth grade would carry the Pilgrimage Cross on their shoulders with the entire student body, representation from STMA, faculty and staff, parents and anyone else who wanted to join us, boldly walking along one of the main thoroughfares in Dover, behind the Cross of Christ. Sounds like a great plan, doesn't it? Well, it didn't happen. We had been led to believe that weather conditions might not be so conducive to such a plan, so we had to cancel our procession. In hindsight, I believe we may have been able to follow through with our plans. I regret the decision, but the unpredictability of a hurricane, and the inability of the forecasters to guarantee favorable conditions led to us staying under shelter.

In closing, I want to take a few words to express my gratitude to Mrs. Beth Riecks and Mrs. Karyn Stant for their mammoth effort in planning our enrichment and class schedule. Using the PowerSchool protocol was a new experience for them. But this time, due to their diligence and sheer determination everything worked out according to plan!

Cemetery News

If you've been at our cemetery recently you've probably noticed something going on around the mausoleum. Construction is underway to expand the mausoleum area with the long awaited open air chapel. Due to the increasing trend towards cremation, instead of another mausoleum the area will include four columns to support the roof with the plan for three columbariums between the columns. Initially, there will be a single columbarium between the two center columns with two additional columbariums being added down the road as the need dictates. Inside the chapel area, the first columbarium will provide 48 new cremation niches in addition to the existing single and double casket crypts. Stay tuned for more information. Sorry for any inconvenience or concern this may cause. Questions should be directed to Len Dornberger at 674 -5787 x135.
