Information About Reception of the Sacraments

The seven Sacraments of the Church were instituted by Christ to confer grace.

Sacrament of Baptism. Call the parish office to register for the parents' pre-Baptismal instruction. For adults seeking to enter the Church and be Baptized, contact our Religious Ed. Office.

Sacrament of Penance (Confession). Children in our religious education program and school are prepared for Confession at age seven, as part of First Communion preparation.

Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. Children in our religious education program and school are prepared for First Communion at age seven. Adults seeking First Communion should contact our Religious Ed. Office Sacrament of Confirmation. Young people in our parish are prepared for reception of Confirmation in the ninth grade (age 14). For adults seeking Confirmation contact our Religious Ed. Office.

Sacrament of Marriage. Couples planning for Marriage are to contact a parish priest or deacon one year in advance to set the wedding date and plan for pre-Cana instruction.

Sacrament of Holy Orders. If you believe you have, or someone you know has, a vocation to the Priesthood or Diaconate, please contact one of our parish priests.

Anointing of the Sick. For the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick (sometimes called "Last Rites") administered by a Priest, a person or immediate family member must make the request. Late night requests may not be able to be answered until the next day. For a visitation to the sick, or Holy Communion to the sick, contact our parish office.

Dear Parishioners,

A lot people think shadows only extend before or after a person or object, with the light in front of or behind them. But I have learned that shadows also extend in front of places – places in the memory. I learned this first hand, when I moved to Dover in the early days of the 1990s. Back then, Dover was a smaller place. But, to me, as a new-comer, it was a brand-new world to learn about.

Remembrance of Things Past. Many times, in those early years of living in Dover, I would ask folks "where is this" or "how do I get to that." The one practice of Doverites that made me crazy in this regard, is that they would often give me directions based on landmarks that were no longer there. Case in point, I needed to buy an account ledger to keep track of my finances (this was back in those heady days before online banking when it was still fashionable to balance a check book). I was told that the only place to find that would be at Capitol Office Supply, downtown. When I asked where it was located, a neighbor of mine said, "It's right down the street from where the old Sear's store used to be." Not helpful. (I must confess that over the years I have become guilty of doing this same thing; recently, a newbie to Dover asked me where the Redners was in Dover, and I answered, "It's on Route 8, where the old Super Fresh used to be.")

Long Shadows. Of course, the folks who gave me these dated directions were neither trying to be funny nor trying to get me lost. They were directing me from what they remembered. Those places they used as landmarks were so central, pivotal or universal to folks in Dover that they remained etched in memory, even after they were long gone. The shadows of those places extended long. The same is true with people. There are people in our lives that have been so important to us; people who remain etched in our memory. Even after they are gone, their shadow extends long; like a person walking away from us toward the light of the sun -- their shadow seems to stretch-out from the light before them, and it recedes oh, so slowly.

Shadows and Light. One might rightly say that the members of our United States Armed Forces who are no longer with us, remain part of our collective memory as a nation. Much like those former landmarks people used in giving me directions, I think it would be fair to say that we use the memory of our fallen men and women of the Armed Forces as guideposts in directing our lives. We use them as role models, heroes, faithful citizens, and folks we aspire to be. Their shadows loom long, reminding that they were there and commending us they have served. As Douglas MacArthur said, "Old Soldiers never die, they just fade away." But they are not forgotten. They are giants, who leave large, long shadows as they depart from us. And paradoxically, their shadows enlighten us.

Landmarks. On Memorial Day, we remember those men and women who made the ultimate sacrifice in the service of our nation. We remember their bravery, commitment and love of God and country. While no longer with us, they are not forgotten. Rather, they collectively serve as a landmark to show us the way to serve others.

Love. In the Gospel of St. John (15:11-12) which we heard last weekend, Christ told his followers: "This is my commandment: love one another as I love you. No one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends." On this Memorial Day, we remember those brave soldiers, sailors, Marines, airmen, and others in our Armed Forces who showed that ultimate love of which there is none greater; we remember those who gave their lives so that we might enjoy the right to life. To play upon the words from our National Anthem, we are the home of the free because of the brave – and on Memorial Day we don't mourn these brave fallen heroes, we remember them, as we stand in the fluttering shadow of our nation's flag.

Memories, May be Beautiful and Yet... That being said, there are those for whom this day is a painful reminder of a personal loss – perhaps, a son, a daughter, a mother, a father, a sister, a brother lost in the service of our nation. In our faith, we are called, indeed commended to pray for those who have gone before us, that they might find rest in Heaven and that we can find peace in that hope given us by Christ.

Our Memory of Christ. Aldous Huxley (who wrote "Brave New World") noted that, "Every man's memory is his private literature." This means that the memories you have – difficult or joyful –help to guide you in life. The most important memory we must always hold is that one imbued into us by faith: that Christ, suffered, died, and rose for us that we might have life to the full. That is the memory that will give us hope to get beyond any pain, any loss.

The Shadow of the Cross. Thus, as faithful Catholics, we are reminded that we are also called to be faithful and at the service of our fellow man. While we might not be called to lay down our lives in the same way as those we remember on Memorial Day, we are called, nonetheless, to lay down our lives in the service of God and neighbor, as we remember the sacrifice that Christ made for us. As Christians, every day is a sort of a "Memorial Day" – wherein, as St. Paul commends us, we are to live in "the shadow of the Cross." That is to say, that each day we are to remember what Christ did for us and what Christ called on us to do in his name. At every Mass, we remember these very things in a most profound way.

Scripture says, "The memory of the just serves as blessing." (Proverbs 10:7). The memories of our loved ones, and on this Memorial Day, the memories of our fallen heroes, bear this out. On this Memorial Day, we remember those who did so much for our nation, but even more so, we remember the One who did so much for their salvation and our, Jesus Christ.

Yours in Christ,
Fr. James Lentini
Pastor

SCHOOL INFORMATION

Around and around, and one more time around---nothing. I knew I should have left earlier. I had intended to. That never works out for me. One more time and still nothing. It was getting close to the time, the nervousness had already begun. Here I was at what is most likely the premier venue in Dover for official gatherings; I'm probably going to be late. What is the reason for there being so little parking at Dover Downs?

It was one of those events where all the important people are. Just about everyone in attendance is someone important. What some might term a "real mover and shaker." I never attend fancy events such as these. But this night was an exception. I had received an invitation from Mrs. Linda Darling, the Parish Youth Minister to attend the annual CYM Recognition Dinner. A fair number of Catholic school leaders and students, along with adult award recipients were recognized for their commitment to the youth of the Diocese. I accepted the invitation because there were four honorees from Holy Cross Parish. I am proud to say that I know all four of them. It was a pleasure to attend the event where these and other men and women were being recognized for their commitment to the young men and women of the Diocese.

- Mrs. Leslie Cote began her teaching career at Holy Cross ten years ago by teaching Pre-K. She is now firmly entrenched in second grade where she plays a key role in the preparation of her students for receiving their Sacraments. She is also affiliated with the parish CCD program where she also teaches second grade. Instrumental in overseeing the operation of the summer Vacation Bible School, Mrs. Cote has served in that capacity for the past five years. She has also volunteered to assist with the Family Retreats in the upcoming year. Mrs. Cote received the St. John Bosco Diocesan Award for Catechesis.
- Mrs. Giovanna Granitto received an award in recognition of her dedicated volunteer work in Youth Ministry. A die-hard volunteer in the CHWC Mrs. Granitto lends her time and talent to all in need. She is mom to Annachiara and Vasco, both students at Holy Cross as well as Maria and Adela who are graduates of our school. Mrs. Granitto received the Volunteer of the Year Award.
- Miss Adele Granitto and Miss Alexis Sterling, two Holy Cross graduates were recipients of the St. Timothy National Youth Award, the highest recognition from the National Federation of Catholic Youth Ministry that a diocese may confer on a junior or senior high school youth.

CYM Annual Recognition Dinner shines a light on the best and the brightest leaders in youth ministry. I was humbled and full of pride all at the same time to be in the company of such a wonderful group of young people who realize that the future is in their hands and they will forge ahead under the guidance and wisdom of the Holy Spirit. I was humbled and full of pride all at the same time to be in the company of dedicated adult men and women who realize the need for their commitment to the young men and women in whose hands we place our future. Congratulations, and thank you.
